Conference: Morning, March 13, 2014 (Thursday)

Venue: Function Hall 2

08:30-08:40	Opening Remarks  DR. YIP MUM WAI Faculty of Engineering and Built Environment Tunku Abdul Rahman University College, Malaysia
08:40-09:15	Keynote Speaker Speech 1  Dr. MG. Westri Kekalih Susilowati Soegijapranata Catholic Univerity Title: Education and Local Wisdom in the Poverty Alleviation Framework: The Basic of Self-Help Model for Empowering the Poor Abstract: Maximum welfare is the goal of development. It goes beyond individual and aggregator’s mindsets. Welfare can be associated with fishes in the sea. Everybody can have it for f It is the same as welfare. To obtain it, people should make efforts to get a better life. Moreover, they should be willing to work. All they need to do are trying to take it seriously in a proper way, and refusing to give up easily. Indonesia’s dream about the welfare is formulated into the National Vision of Long Term Development Planning 2005 – 2025. It sets forth the independence, justice, improvement, and welfare for Indonesia. The Government has conducted some efforts to reduce poverty. However, poverty rate reduction was not as much as expected. It is as if stagnant, would

	not budge. Some experts say that there are many blunders in the paradigm of poverty alleviation. The poverty alleviation model tends to be top down, initiated by government. This model put "the poor" as an object. It is based on the premise that poor have nothing. There is also tendency to apply charitable-based poverty alleviation model. Suharto (2003) says that poverty eradication should be started from "what poor people have" instead of "what poor people need". Poverty alleviation should use the philosophy of empowerment. To empower the poor cannot simply rely on uniform patterns. In fact, in each of the poor have different social psychology character. The social psychology character of the society, including the poor is strongly influenced by the physical and non-physical environment as well as local community interaction patterns. Through the social psychology character of the poor identification, the potential of the poor will be explored as well as their social capital. Thus, anti-poverty program in which the poor can solve their own problems - to help people to help themselves can be formulated. To develop this model, education and local wisdom as a manifestation of the positive values that exist in the community can be used as the Basic of Self-Help Model for Empowering the Poor.
09:15-9:50	Keynote Speaker Speech 2   Sugumaran Narayanan Midwestern State University, USA  Title: Southeast Asian Civil Wars: Analysis Using Various Research Methods to Arrive at Unified Results Abstract: Historically, Southeast Asia has been among the most peaceful regions of the world. In the last sixty years, however, the populations of Southeast Asia have been torn apart by ravaging civil wars. What could be causing the high number of ethno-religious civil wars in Southeast Asia? Exactly what aspects of ethnicity and religion are associated with the start and continuation of war? What happens when religion and race crosses the path of a historically and traditionally peaceful Southeast Asian culture? To understand this, I use three different methods, quantitative (statistical),

	traditional case studies, and personal interviews with direct participants of conflict. Without personal interviews, the research becomes critically incomplete. No studies have used three methods—quantitative, case studies, and personal interviews. The interviews provide direct contact with parties involved in the conflicts, and the goal is to produce an organized, balanced, comprehensive, and fair research that elicits information in its totality. What I propose to do is to build an inventory of transcripts of personal interviews of all former and current parties directly involved in these conflicts. This, combined with the results obtained from the other two methods, will highlight the causes of civil wars in Southeast Asia, bringing to the surface the dynamics behind these causes, therefore allowing policy-makers to consider the causes of civil war, which will contribute to tailoring policies accordingly. I believe all civil war actors will be more comfortable with scholars than with journalists. Very few exclusive press conferences have been conducted in the topic of civil war, making press reports haphazard, disjointed, misleading, and reported in bits and pieces. I am embarking on an organized, balanced, comprehensive, and a fair report that elicits information in totality.
10:15-10:50	Keynote Speaker Speech 3  DR. YIP MUM WAI  Faculty of Engineering and Built Environment Tunku Abdul Rahman University College, Malaysia Abstract: Innovation is a buzz word in the new economy, have you ever wondered how to become more innovative? If music, arts, singing, dancing, martial arts can be taught, so is INNOVATION. There is a way to learn and teach INNOVATION in a systematic way, it is called TRIZ or Theory of Inventive Problem Solving. The concept and application of TRIZ tools are discussed in this presentation. The preliminary literature review identified organizational culture, top management leadership, team work and education and training are the key success factors of TRIZ implementation. Theoretical model of key success factors of implementation of TRIZ in Malaysia is proposed. Important research implications are discussed.

The Snake Temple (Chinese: 蛇庙; pinyin: Shé Miào; Peh-ōe-jī: Tsuâ-biō) is situated in Sungai Kluang, Bayan Lepas, Penang, Malaysia and is perhaps the only temple of its kind in the world. The temple is filled with the smoke of burning incense and a variety of pit vipers. The vipers are believed to be rendered harmless by the sacred smoke, but as a safety precaution, the snakes have also been de-venomed but still have their fangs intact. Visitors are warned against picking up the reptiles and placing them on their bodies to take pictures. Local devotees believe the temple's snake population comes there of its own accord.

Fort Cornwallis is a star fort that the British East India Company built in the late 1700s on the northeastern coast of Penang Island, Malaysia. It is named after the late 18th century Governor-General of Bengal, India, Charles Cornwallis, 1st Marquess Cornwallis. Fort Cornwallis is the largest standing fort in Malaysia. In its entire history, the fort has never engaged in any battle.

Clan Jetties form part of the Penang Heritage Trail. There used to be seven jetties until one was demolished by fire and now six remain. Billed as one of the last bastions of old Chinese settlements on the island, this waterfront society is home to houses on stilts of various Chinese clans. Located straight down from Lebuah Chulia (beside the Kapitan Kling Mosque) at Pengkalan Weld (Weld Quay), these water villages are over a century old. Each jetty is named after a Chinese clan – the Chew Jetty is the most tourist-friendly with the most stilt-houses, the longest walkway, a temple that is worth stopping by and plenty of places for those Kodak moments.

Mirrors George Town is a series of murals painted on various street walls of Penang by a talented Lithuanian artist, Ernest Zacharevic. Some of these artworks include larger than life portraits as well as 3D incorporated murals. Ernest was commissioned by the Penang Island Municipal Council to create the Mirrors George Town series in conjunction with the 2012 George Town Festival Celebration. George Town is the capital of Penang Island, which has also been inscribed as a World Heritage Site.
